

Health Science

Suggested Combination:	Health and Social Care, Psychology, Applied Science or Biology
The great thing about the academic pathway is that it allows you to choose 3 Subjects. This gives you the advantage of choosing a wide range of future careers. Below we have included a sample of future pathways associated with a Health Science direction. To find out more information and possible future pathways for this subject combination log on to UNIFROG by following this link https://www.unifrog.org/student/subjects
Possible Degrees	Nursing: BSc in Nursing, Specialisations: Adult Nursing, Mental Health Nursing, Paediatric Nursing. Healthcare Management: BSc in Healthcare Management BA in Health and Social Care Management Occupational Therapy: BSc in Occupational Therapy Physiotherapy: BSc in Physiotherapy. Social Work: BSc in Social Work. Health Sciences: BSc in Health Sciences Specializations: Public Health, Health Promotion. Biomedical Science: BSc in Biomedical Science Paramedic Science: BSc in Paramedic Science
Possible Careers and Apprenticeships	Registered Nurse: Work in hospitals, clinics, or community settings, providing patient care and support. Healthcare Manager/Administrator: Oversee healthcare facilities, manage staff, and ensure efficient operation of healthcare services. Occupational Therapist: Help people overcome challenges in daily living due to injury, illness, or disability. Physiotherapist: Assist patients in recovering from physical injuries or conditions through physical exercises and therapies. Social Worker: Support individuals and families dealing with challenges, such as mental health issues, poverty, or child protection. Public Health Specialist: Focus on preventing diseases and promoting health in communities through education and policy. Biomedical Scientist: Conduct laboratory tests to aid in the diagnosis and treatment of diseases. Paramedic: Respond to emergency calls, providing pre-hospital care and transportation to individuals in need. Apprenticeships available: Pharmacy Services Assistant; Sonographer; Nursing Associate.